SYNOPSIS:	Selim Kara, a prosecutor in Istanbul, lives apart from his family in Çeşme. His wife Canan, daughter Yağmur, and son Altay have crafted a life without him. When Selçuk Taşkın, a gang leader, unexpectedly offers Selim a deal to protect his son Akgün in exchange for testimony against his crime syndicate, Selim agrees. Facing family challenges, he journeys to Çeşme with Akgün in a bid to salvage his marriage. They move into the house opposite his estranged family, and while Altay embraces the unexpected arrival, Canan and Yağmur feel betrayed. Akgün, who grew up in a criminal world, resents Selim for arresting his father. Yağmur is particularly repelled by Akgün's mafia connections. Their relationship takes a turn, however, when an ill-timed kiss ignites tension between them. Amidst this, Akgün discovers his father's supposed prison death is part of a larger conspiracy. In a surprising twist, Akgün risks his life for Selim, deepening their bond and leading Yağmur to admit her feelings for him. While trying to help Selim, Akgün must clear his own reputation as he is being accused of being a murderer. After Akgün proves his innocence, he proposes to Yağmur, but they break up because of a disagreement. Yağmur's ex-boyfriend tries to take advantage of this situation fights with Akgün and causes him to get imprisoned. Their lives get interrupted by the mafia's murder of Canan. After these emotionally turbulent events, Akgün and Yağmur get back together. Meanwhile, Selim experiences a conscientious reckoning with himself and decides to confess the murder he committed. Selim gets imprisoned and Yağmur becomes his father's lawyer to defend him in his case. Selim finally approves Yağmur and Akgün's relationship, which leads to Akgün feeling accepted in a family after a long time.
