SYNOPSIS:	The 500T, a city line bus that stops at 78 stations between Cevizlibağ and Tuzla, mysteriously disappears along with its passengers. Despite thorough police investigations and the examination of camera footage, the mystery remains unsolved. The Istanbul Governor's Office confirms the bus's disappearance, but no footage of the bus can be found. As the police and press delve into the case, the mystery deepens, captivating public interest. Ercüment Danişman, a researcher and author specializing in conspiracy theories, becomes particularly intrigued by the case and decides to investigate. As public debate about the missing bus intensifies, the police scrutinize everyone from the bus driver Haluk K. to the foreign passengers. Meanwhile, Ercüment Danişman explores the most unexpected possibilities, including whether the unidentified object seen in the sky on the day of the disappearance might be related. Experts and eyewitnesses join Danişman in questioning if aliens could have abducted the 500T. The fact that no trace of the bus is found for years raises further questions, suggesting that an unknown phenomenon beyond scientific explanation might be at play. Mysterious experiences reported by the passengers' relatives and eyewitnesses lend weight to these extraordinary theories. In pursuit of answers, connections are drawn to the Haciosman experiment in the Istanbul metro, with experts considering black hole formation, CERN experiments, and parallel universes. A 9,000-year-old tablet found in Konya Alanhöyük potentially offers clues about the bus's fate, suggesting a possible link to time travel or reincarnation. As scientific experiments probe these unexplained questions, the enigma of the 500T grows. The final episode invites viewers to unravel the mystery, questioning what the bus is doing on a forest road and exploring the fates of both the missing passengers and their anxious relatives. The journey promises to peel back layers of the mystery surrounding the 500T, revealing connections that bridge time, space, and the unknown.
