SYNOPSIS:	Eylül is a young woman living with her grandmother in Istanbul and earning a living as a sex worker. Her biggest dream is to earn enough money to move to Wales in the United Kingdom. One night, Eylül gets invited to a bachelor party by a group of friends and she falls in love with the groom Cem, who is going to marry his classy girlfriend with whom he has been in a long-distance relationship. After that night, Cem and Eylül's lives begin to collide with one another. As the wedding day gets closer, Cem's fiancée Başak returns to Turkey. However, Eylül and Cem continue seeing each other regularly, forcing Cem to balance his high-profile life and secret relationship. Cem and Başak visit their friend at his film shooting and see that the girl acting in the sex scene is Eylül. Başak wants a different experience before the wedding and invites Eylül to spend a night with her and Cem. In the following days, Eylül's grandmother dies and she seeks support from Cem during an emotional breakdown. When Başak sees that Eylül is calling Cem in the middle of the night, she realizes that there is something between the two of them. Because of her jealousy, Başak tells Cem that she slept with his brother before they met. Despite these events, Cem and Başak do not give up on getting married. The wedding starts intense because Cem's friend Bulut brings Eylül as his date. Nevertheless, Başak decides to accept the relationship between the three of them, resulting in Cem staying at Eylül's house. Before Cem leaves the house, an uninvited guest arrives and starts having a heated fight with Eylül. Cem, hiding in the room, hears a gunshot. When he finds enough courage to leave the room, he sees that Eylül is lying on the floor bleeding to death.
